If the power goes out, will you be ready?

When old man winter comes calling with ice and snow you can stay comfortable in your home with your own personal power plant. A Home Standby Generator installed by Blue Ridge Security is an automatic system that produces electricity as soon as it senses a power outage – 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Easily installed next to your home, it starts automatically whether you're at home or away. Fueled by natural gas or LP supply, Blue Ridge standby generators do not require extension cords, messy gasoline or prior planning. You and your family will have the emergency power to be safe, secure and comfortable everyday regardless of what the weather brings. Have your standby generator installed today and never worry about a power outage again.

Blue Ridge Security also offers a line of portable generators for home use. Using inverter technology, the power produced by the generator is passed through a special electronic microprocessor to provide clean and stable power. This power is safe for computers and other sensitive electronic devices. Designed for life on the road as well, these generators are durable, lightweight and compact—a perfect choice for camping, tailgating, and recreational use.
